DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 15 February 2008 has been entered.
2. In response to the previous office action, Applicant has amended claims 1, 10, 11, and 13. Claims 1-13 have been examined.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-5, 8, and 10-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 6,760,444 to Leung et al.

As per claims 1, 10, and 13, Leung discloses an interaction between a Home Agent (the application device comprising management clients) that is connected to a server (the service device) via a communications network (see column 6, lines 24-26) and one or more wireless clients. The Home Agent may contact the server with a request for services such as creating (see column 2, line 58 to column 3, line 16) and managing security associations or authentication services (handled by the server's internet protocol security services) and receive in return a security association (see column 7, lines 16-32). The response is sent by the server to the home agent (see column 7, lines 33-50). Since the security associations may comprise keys (see column 7, line 67), this uses a session key management protocol.

As per claims 2 and 11, the Home Agents network interface (for communicating with the communications network, see column 9, line 53 to column 10, line 6) provides communication between the management clients and the server.

As per claims 3 and 12, security associations must be copied from the server to the Home Agent in order to create and manage or facilitate modifications in security associations.

As per claims 4 and 5, the server may use IP, for which all communications inherently use sockets at both ends of a communication and data structures for the packet formats (see column 6, lines 26-28 and column 8, lines 37-39).

As per claim 8, each client's security associations and communications may use a different keying algorithm (see figure 4, item 412).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 6, 7, and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent No. 6,760,444 to Leung et al.

Regarding claim 6, Leung does not discuss the architecture of the software in the system that is employed to use the communications interface.

Official notice is given that it is well-known in the art to package the related functions for using a device on a computer in a DLL.

Therefore, it would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to implement the network interface functions as a DLL.

Regarding claims 7 and 9, Leung does not disclose the structure of the network connecting the Home Agents to the servers.

Official notice is given that it is well-known in the art to implement computer connections using a local network.

Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to implement Leung's invention using a local network.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-13 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
